*Reports from Cienfuegos, Casilda, and Santa Cruz del Sur.*CIENFUEGOS, CUBA, December 16, 1901.

SIR: Through the chief quarantine officer for the island of Cuba, I have the honor to transmit the following report of transactions in the district under my command for the week ended December 14, 1901:

Fifteen deaths have occurred in this city; of these 4 occurred in the civil hospital. Causes of death were as follows: Tuberculosis, 3; paludism, 2; sclerosis, arterial, 2; cancer, 1; old age, 1; enteritis, 1; insufficiency, mitral, 1; endocarditis, 1; remittent fever, 1; peritonitis, 1; syphilis, 1. Death rate per 1,000 inhabitants, 19.55. Three cases of measles were removed from the city jail during the past week; all bedding burned and premises thoroughly disinfected; cases are confined in the city lazaretto, isolated, and under observation. No other cases have been reported in the city, therefore, cases must have originated in the building; but, with the precautions taken, no further spread of the disease is anticipated. Five vessels inspected and passed, granted free pratique; 5 vessels admitted without inspection; 17 bills of health were issued vessels leaving this port, and no alien steerage passengers landed at this port.

Casilda.—Acting Asst. Surg. A. Cantero reports 3 deaths in the city of Trinidad during the week. No contagious diseases reported in that vicinity. Health of city and port excellent; 13 vessels were inspected, passed, and granted free pratique; 10 bills of health issued to vessels leaving Casilda, and no alien steerage passengers were landed at that port.

Santa Cruz del Sur.—Acting Asst. Surg. P. M. Quevedo reports no deaths at that port during week ended December 7, 1901. No contagious
